

IGLOO MAXCOLD LATITUDE 62 ROLLER

62-quart wheeled cooler | Quick-use & care guide | Costco item #1872193

Product basics

- Capacity: 62 quarts; up to 98 cans (manufacturer rating).
- Cooling: insulated body and lid, THERMECOOL foam, and raised Cool Riser design. Up to 5 days of ice retention in controlled testing at 90°F; actual results vary.
- Handling: locking telescoping push/pull handle, oversized wheels, molded side lifting handles, four self-draining cup holders, and triple-snap drain plug.

Before first use

- Inspect the lid, wheels, pull handle, and drain plug for damage or missing parts.
- Wash the inside with mild detergent and water, rinse thoroughly, and dry. Close the drain plug before adding ice.

Using the cooler

- For best cold retention, pre-chill drinks and food and use plenty of ice or cold packs. Keep the lid closed as much as possible.
- Pull the telescoping handle up until locked; push or pull the cooler on its wheels. Retract the handle when finished.
- Use the molded side handles when lifting. Avoid lifting a heavily loaded cooler alone.
- To drain meltwater, position the cooler where water can run off safely and open the triple-snap drain plug. Reseat it securely before moving or refilling.

Safety & care

- Keep perishable food at a safe temperature; use a food thermometer when needed. This ice cooler does not actively refrigerate.
- Keep children from climbing inside; do not use the cooler as a seat or step stool.
- Clean with water and mild detergent. Rinse and dry completely. Do not put the cooler in a dishwasher or washing machine.
- Store with the lid open and drain plug open so residual moisture can escape. Avoid prolonged exposure to extreme heat.

Quick troubleshooting

- Ice melts quickly: add more ice, pre-chill contents, reduce lid opening, and keep the cooler in shade.
- Water leaks: make sure the drain plug is fully seated and inspect it for dirt or damage.
- Handle or wheels feel stuck: check for obstructions and avoid forcing the mechanism.
